ABSTRACT

The purpose of this annotated bibliography in chart form is to acquaint community educators with what media materials are available where on the topic of community education, based on a 1976 survey of community education centers and state department offices. The bibliography is divided into three color-coded sections of materials dated from 1965-1976: (1) materials listed by institution where they are available; (2) listings by types of materials, including cassettes, films, filmstrips, multimedia kits, overhead transparencies, printed handouts, reel tapes, simulations, slides, slide/filmstrip/tapes, and video tapes; and (3) entries by subject classification, arranged alphabetically by author within each subject. Information on category, topic/title, author, target audience, rating scale of effect on audience, date developed, length, color/black and white, availability, and local development is given to enable prior judgement as to suitability, target audience, and appeal. The following bibliography is the result of a questionnaire which was sent to all community education centers and state department offices during the summer, 1976.

This bibliography is divided into three sections: by institution/center --- listing the media categories; by media category --- listing entries in alphabetical order, and by subject classification --- listing entries by author.

It is the purpose of the bibliography to acquaint community educators with what materials are available and where. It also provides information about the media item that will permit prior judgement as to suitability, target audience and appeal.

In order for media to be successful and have the desired impact on an audience, the material must be carefully selected and selectively employed. Healthy use of media includes the use of new approaches and fresh material. It is hoped that the bibliography will sharpen the media user's focus and promote exchanges of materials.

Mott Foundation and NCEA media releases have not been included in the bibliography since they should be available at every center as well as from the respective national offices.

I would like to thank the members of the Mid-Atlantic Community Education Consortium for the funds which made this research possible, the participating centers and personnel who made the information available and the University of South Carolina for the support and help throughout this project.
